

visionary

by Kitty Boots

ocean child gazes at the celadon water and gauges the depths he must dive to discover the meaning of what he has found on the shore gneiss from the fall line a sun-bleached scapula, poris let it lie

there is never a reason to disturb old bones

