

Delayed Sentence (55 Word Story)

by Kyle G

The river waited for her patiently. She took an instinctive deep breath. Suddenly, realizing the irony of her unconscious grasp for air, the corners of her mouth tipped upwards. Without another thought, she stepped back down. If she could still find humor while standing on the ledge of a bridge, she wasn't done living yet.

