

taken

by Lilia Souzay

today
somewhere by water
this photograph of a woman in a grey woolen hat
her eyes hiding behind
oversized
sunglasses
her hair longer than it has been in a while and it's rare
that I recognize myself
taken
like this
out of a moment
exposed
light falling onto
sensitive surface
I look
with some tenderness
at her, captured
in permanence
while I have already become someone else

