love letter

by Lily Hoang

At night, I fold your name in origami doves and blow, hard, and you are disassembled come morning.