

The First poem.

by Lorraine Joubert

You came to me
like a thunderstorm
when I was in hell.
The storm stopped
abrupt.

You returned in the calm
leaving chaos
I ran.
You found me
Then you stopped
abrupt.

Leaving me with images of a coffin
and fear

