

specter in transit

by M. F. Sullivan

at the front of the bus
 sways a white-veiled woman:
 gnarled hands upon
 a bag of palms,

transcendent face
unseen--

emptiness
 i forget i have forgotten.

