

the best laugh i've had all day

by M. F. Sullivan outside for a cigarette with the rain drizzling when down the street

a female cat
yowls with the force of a red light blazing in an alley.

four toms appear running in a line along the fence a chubby fifth trailing behind almost slipping as he keeps up all their coats flashing past in a rainbow
as they rush
to their obnoxious feline gang-bang.
