the best laugh i've had all day

by M. F. Sullivan

outside for a cigarette with the rain drizzling when down the street a female cat yowls with the force of a red light blazing in an alley.

four toms appear running in a line along the fence a chubby fifth trailing behind almost slipping as he keeps up all their coats flashing past in a rainbow as they rush to their obnoxious feline gang-bang.

Available online at «http://fictionaut.com/stories/m-f-sullivan/the-best-laugh-ive-had-all-day» Copyright © 2013 M. F. Sullivan. All rights reserved.