

I Was a Cat Once

by Mark Budman

I Was a Cat Once by Mark Budman

My cat plays snowballs on the deck. He bends his paw at an impossible angle and throws a ball up. He follows me around or herds me toward his feeding bowl.

I can see a cat we cremated before him in his eyes. All cats share one soul. Me too?

