Zombie Night

by Mark Waldrop

The man and the lady loved to laugh.

She would tuck her hair back and lay her head on his stomach after dinner while watching old scary movies on Thursday nights.

She would listen to his stomach digest the food and laugh then, he would laugh and her red curls would bounce down along her neck and that Made them both laugh harder.

She would imitate the gurgling noises with her mouth and say she was having a conversation with his chicken or steamed fish and rice. pizza.

One day he was playing with her hair she was listening to tuna casserole and watching zombies on TV he said,
"I have cancer, can you hear it?"

She listened so hard, but she could not.
