

Grace Note

by Michael D. Brown

At James' funeral, Edward recalled the Brooklyn night in James' Chevy. Seventies teenagers. "I was gonna come on to you tonight." That nonevent persuaded him. Visiting his mother after moving perforce to Greenwich Village, Edward spied an overweight James in transit, then saw him thin again at his wife's funeral when Kelly succumbed to ARC.

