Mausoleum

by Miles Tepper

Take time to catch your dream like a child grabs at fireflies for the false comfort of their cold light

You see the marble slab beyond outstretched fingers in this room which hides the rotting flesh once loved you might as well be blind

Held in by walls of ice you sense the light that warms.