Disappear Everywhere

by Peter Erich

I put my forehead onto your forehead We meet at this little dot of temperature We breathe hushstrokes over the hills and purses of our bodies This is where we are three-dimensional This is when we conquer our heroes and monsters