

and Henry Rollins as Lydia Grant

by Rene Foran

“Look, if you are passionate about becoming famous, don't bother setting foot in here unless you're ready to give one hundred and fifteen percent of yourself. And that does not include your super sized, lard assed American ego. Really. At this stage of the game you don't even matter enough to have an asshole. And nobody is going to give a flying fuck about what you feel, how you got jobbed by American Idol, that your cousin finger banged that fat chick from Glee, or the life journey you're on until either you've made it, or you become a Kardashian. Save it for your Twitter.”
