

In Real Life

by Rhys Nixon

I'm starting to feel more interested in my savings account.
I'm starting to feel more concerned with how I spent my money.
I'm starting to feel more like I want to watch the news.
I'm starting to feel more like I'm scared by what's on the news.
I'm starting to feel more interested in building furniture.
I'm starting to feel more interested in growing a garden.
I'm starting to feel more content with the idea of having a nice house.
I'm starting to feel more interested in the idea of a home loan.
I'm starting to feel more concerned with what my long term goals are.
I'm starting to feel more concerned with what my short term goals are.
I'm starting to feel more conscious of how I look to the world.
I'm starting to feel more like I don't care how I look to the world.
I'm starting to feel more like my parents.
I'm starting to feel more like they actually knew what they were talking about.
I'm starting to feel more sympathetic to others.
I'm starting to feel more scared that my friends have kids.
I'm starting to feel more comfortable with the way I feel sometimes.
I'm starting to feel more uncomfortable with that I'm getting comfortable with how I feel sometimes.
I'm starting to feel more like I knew how the economy worked.
I'm starting to feel more guilty with how little I know about politics.
I'm starting to feel more like I stick out in clothing stores.
I'm starting to feel more like I don't stick out in supermarkets.
I'm starting to feel more like I can share these feelings with the people I know.
I'm starting to feel more like they don't care and that they have their own problems.

