

A hushed something

by Roberto C. Garcia

Her skin is muddy earth I'd gladly play in.

I would risk—for
one night inside.

She's sitting next to me,
I ask her for a pen
& paper

to write this poem.
Her perfume,
tended under my nose,

stirs up
all kinds of bad.

