

Naked (a translation)

by Roberto C. Garcia

His body echoed in the mirror cracked into distant images:
one & many, thick, reverse
reflection of now of an instant before.

He'd enter as before fleeing his own aftertaste, in burning return, suspended, sparse, to the frown
of two voices, two eyes, two moments.

All his absence stood —in his presence—stretched until the next occasion marking one more absence:
well-underway to a place with no path
inert curse of his own affection, statue of his body for posterity!

Original Spanish

Su cuerpo resonaba en el espejo vertebrado en imagenes distantes:
uno y multiple, espeso, de reflejo reverso ahora de inmediato antes.

Entraba de anterior huida al deajo de si mismo, en retornos palpitantes, retenido, disperso, al entrecejo
de dos voces, dos ojos, dos instantes.

Toda su ausencia estaba —en su presencia—dilatada hasta el proximo asidero del comienzo inminente de otra ausencia:
rumbo intacto de espacio sin sender
al inmovil azar de su querencia, estatua de su cuerpo venidero!

