

Over simplifying the solution, or, there have been way too many celebrations at the confetti factory

by Sean Taylor

it only takes a little water to get the blood out of..
your favorite dress
your favorite needle
the guest bedroom your in laws left you in
"it's mostly made of water, your blood that is,
it's mostly made of water"
she said
"and it makes sense"
so when she fell down the stairs still she said
"try some soda water,
it should clean up this mess,
then we can,
try and put my bones back in they're mostly made of calcium white like milk, mostly calcium just drink some milk, it should fix everything."

Available online at «<http://fictionaut.com/stories/sean-taylor/over-simplifying-the-solution-or-there-have-been-way-too-many-celebrations-at-the-confetti-factory>»

Copyright © 2010 Sean Taylor. All rights reserved.

So when I quit my job I just jumped in this is my resignation letter I told my boss
I'm mostly made of water how dare you pretend to be a banker, a professional I said
life guards are always swimming in it mostly water, they never pretend they're saving lives, they're putting the souls back in
by pulling the water out
"Take the water out,"
she said
"I've had too much of it,
you've got to limit it,
don't you know
we'll get older
before we get dead"
I said
"don't you know
water runs
and we're mostly made of it,"
"where are you going, where have you been?"
"Water runs,
and we're mostly made of it."

