

2 Little Paragraphs About Writing

by stephen hastings-king

I write in the morning when the world is bendy. I make coffee and arrange words: put some in, move them around, take some out.

I think some very grand things but try not to let them get in the way.

