

Event Particle 12

by stephen hastings-king

The snow buzzes in the Ritalin air beneath Dairy Queen clouds, the return of the frozen ghosts of AM signals that bounced away into summer nights, breaking into streaks the glow of the giant yellow pills that line the horizon, buzzing like the end of remembering, the rattle and going under.

