

Event Particle

by stephen hastings-king

With the morning comes the repetition always the same scene always the same story.

In the morning the repetition comes after I am asleep before I am awake. With it recognition comes. Hello again. It's you again.

Repetition comes in the morning always the same scene always the same story. It does not fade. It does not intensify.

With the repetition comes the morning always the same hallucination of your skin.

