

justice in obverse and reverse

by strannikov

seriously: let defendants choose their coin, execute their own calls, make their own coin flips—attentive referee, no need for a court.

—or assess ability to toss a coin into circles of chalk, just a one-time toss or two-out-of-three for some crimes, for some folks.

adjudication by coin toss, what a sport!
let adjudication chambers come equipped with no more than, say, three or five coins apiece:

while some defendants might prefer rolls of coins,
gold and silver judgments tilt justice's scales.

