

The tuner

by Walter Bjorkman

wound brass unraveled with age fingers strummed
in quiet unison

neck curve stroked with calloused thumb pine, maple, cherry yielding wood song

chords, harmonic whispers green departure hymns
left at the player's door

