The tuner

by Walter Bjorkman

wound brass unraveled with age fingers strummed in quiet unison neck curve stroked with calloused thumb pine, maple, cherry yielding wood song chords, harmonic whispers green departure hymns left at the player's door