

Edith Head's Heady Day

by Yasmin Elaine Waring

The hair lacquered woman with a manicure tasted tasty freckles of snow on her tongue.
Rain dressed for winter, a win, she thought.
Mother Nature, a natural with haute couture.

